FOREWORD

The Class of 1924
in submitting this year's Clarion desire to express our appreciation and gratitude for the fine spirit of cooperation exhibited by our friends in all the classes and the citizens of the community in aiding us in the preparation of this edition without advertising. The staff feel that this idea is worthy of the consideration of future classes who will publish
"The Clarion"

POEM

*When the school's last lesson is mastered,
And the classes are tested and tried;
When the stupidest student has vanished,
And the dullest has stepped aside;
We shall rest—and, faith, we shall need it!—
We shall rest for a moment or two,
Till the wonderful School of Experience
Shall set us to work anew.*

*Then those who have gone shall be happy;
They shall pass through life's higher grade;
They shall face the world's difficult problems
With countenance unafraid;
They shall pass through each test as they meet it
At the sound of duty's stern call;
They shall work every day—when they have to—
And never be tired at all.*

*And only the big world shall praise us,
And only the big world shall blame,
Though we work for the joy of the winning,
And climb up the pathway of fame;
For each in his separate calling,
His separate thought must express,
As he follows the gleam as he sees it
To the goal that to him means success.*

CHARLES MOORE

While acting two terms as president of the class he is greatly responsible if it were a success.

KATHERINE BALFOUR

*Oh! How we laughed when we read
"Katy Did."
But hasn't our Kitty done more than
Katy Did?*

WILLIAM ENGLEGU

*Billie is our tall young lad
And playing good baseball is his fad.*

HELEN THOMPSON

*Helen is our good example of loyalty,
For which virtue she will collect a royalty.*

HELEN PRATT

*Helen is a record keeper of memory books
But some day instead they will be books for cooks.*

FREDERIC WATSON

*Short of stature is our man Watson
But we know he'll get there in the long run.*

MARJORIE MACKLEY

*She always liked to be known as
"Margie"
But can she when her mother ruled it Marjorie?*

JOHN DERES

He used to be a farmer, but thence forward not Because he has acquired "Johnny on the spot."

LUCRETIA PATTERSON

*Keish though in size is rather small
She can carry off honors in basket ball.*

MELVIN BRINES

*Ben fell into the footsteps of his brother
And that was as good as any other.*

MARIAN WESTRICK

*Through the country is known the name of Westrick
To it we would like to know if Marian will stick.*

DONALD MACRAE

*Science is the subject of MacRae's
And there he collected a "snag" of A's.*

DOROTHY BEYSLAG

*Whenever a word is said of Beyschlag
It is generally conceded as the law.*

ERNEST WELSER

*Moulded, the High school, the career of Welser
It is murmured he is to be a cow tester.*

VERONA WILSON

*Although Verona was generally called "Scrub"
She was a great deal more than the ordinary dub.*

VICTOR CHASE

*Dick was envied by Greek Gods
For the way he clipped off the rods.*

VERA BLACKHALL

*Although there's no symptoms of it yet
We think she'll make a good suffragette.*

ELWIN FALLIS

*Starting with a stove lid, this person
Fallis
Achieved the perfection of heaving a discus.*

JULIA WELLS

*Julia as an office girl, really takes the cake
Her success along the business line she'll make.*

CHARLES ZIMMER

*This boy is known as "Zim."
To his success he'll go with vim.*

HELEN RADIKE

*Small is Helen's physical baggage
And jewels are wrapped in as small a package.*

CHARLES ASH

*Let the "ole fight" be represented by cash
You'll find a million dollars in the possession of Ash.*

FRANCES COX

*Frances was a bright light in many ways
She'll reflect great wisdom all of her days.*

JOHN BIEWER

*"Boats to rent" and "Minnows for sale,"
Got John a start on the business trail.*

HELEN BAKER

*High pointer in the game of basket ball
Baker made her bid in that "famous hall."*

CHARLOTTE RUFF

*To tickle the keys is her game
And there we know she'll make a name.*

EDWARD ROBINS

*He is our shut out, no run pitcher
In the majors his tent he'll pitch her.*

JESSIE McCORMICK

*Jessie in a worry, Jessie in a fury
But when it's nearly eight o'clock
she's never in a hurry.*

ARTHUR BEAUDUA

*Playing third base and as a batter
Red hair did shine brighter than ever.*

MARIE HARTLEIN

*Driving her Ford with might and main
Up the road to success she intends to aim.*

BLANCHARD CLELAND

*Sprouting upward is this boy Cleland
If he doesn't stop soon he'll hit the ceilin'.*

LEORA WOODS

*Woods last summer, Woods last fall,
But by next winter it may not be
"Woods" at all.*

MADELINE SMITH

*Always working for the Ag. Association
Who is responsible for its elevation.*

LOUIS RUFF

*Louis has been growing carnations
And will undoubtedly be his future occupation.*

SENIOR CLASS PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

In the closing hours of our High School career we, as a class, feel deeply the appreciation that our fellow students have shown in what we have attempted to accomplish in our work here. The class of '24 is grateful for the many little kindnesses the High School students have shown and we are more than pleased with the spirit manifested in doing them and in helping us to attain our High School success—graduation.

As a whole I feel that our class has shown remarkable spirit in their work, I wish to thank them for the fine support they have given me in putting over the top our many projects. The cooperation of the class in raising funds for the publishing of our year book has been especially inspiring. We wish also to extend our hearty appreciation to the faculty for the untiring efforts put forth for our success. We are confident that without "our type" of teacher our four years in high school could not have been as beneficial to us both intellectually and socially. Therefore as a class we want every one that has shown interest in our work to know that though we take different roads they will ever be in our minds and we shall never forget what they have meant to us.

From the time we entered the high school until now, the time for us to leave it, we have noticed two changes, one a material or physical change and the other a mental and moral change. First the change of our surroundings and buildings. We started our education in the old red brick high school and are now finishing it in one of the best school buildings in the country. This physical change has not come about by itself. Some one is responsible for it and I think all the credit and glory should go to our Superintendent, Professor Misenar. It was he who started the discussion of a new school building back in 1919 and 1920. Then later, however just before it was put to a public vote, Mr. Misenar put on one of the biggest advertising campaigns ever experienced in St. Clair, and did it pay? Now we are not disturbed in school while studying by some of the old beams or rafters squeaking and cracking. Did Mr. Misenar have to do this? Was it part of his work? Why certainly not. He did it solely because of his interest in the school project in St. Clair. I feel that we have one of the biggest men in the state for our Superintendent and I think no one can give him too much credit for this piece of work. We need also to mention of our class advisors Mrs. Maw, Miss Howe and Mr. Beecher and thank them for the deep interest they have shown in our class. Mrs. Maw has been one of our advisors ever since we were eighth graders, and has worked faithfully with us through the five years that followed. We want her to know that the class as a whole appreciate this interest. Now we come to the second change—the mental change. When we were eighth graders and freshmen the morals of the school were so low that it was a very common occurrence for students to take an examination with open books beside them. And this was not the worst of it. This type of test became so common that students not only did it but did it with the idea that it was not wrong and that he was not cheating—not cheating because he never gave it a thought.

When students do this kind of thing and do it knowingly, I wonder how many have even thought just who we are cheating? Is it the teacher, the school, the other student, or ourself? It is mostly ourself. What we learn in school we expect to put to use in life and so if we learn the bad or undesirable things along with the good things, we will put them to use just as much as we put to use the latter, and when cheating becomes a habit then we are in deep water and this is the time we want to put on the brakes and check ourselves. Habit, habit, habit the only way to stop a bad habit is to stop the entire habit all at once. Year by year we have noticed that through different environment in our school life, we have gradually seen the highest standards of this high school reached. Now students take a different attitude toward their work and not only their work but in their play. The selfish spirit of an individual or a group has not been so prominent in our school life. And what has done all this? One thing—the setting of a high goal or standard. The striving of the school, not the individual but the whole student body has made possible the reaching of this higher rung on the ladder of success. Nothing can be more promising than the making of this change for the better. The students have taken a different attitude toward their relationship and business. We are a city state among ourselves. We are now taking care of the school business and governing ourselves. In the last few years we have adopted a new constitution under which each student has a part. We feel that this is a shift farther in our school life. Questions have come up that have been usually left to the faculty but now the students are so interested that they have taken it to their school government and there it has been discussed and settled. This whole issue of self government has made each student more self reliant and confident in his own opinions. In athletics we have also noticed a great change which is for the better. A few years ago it was very customary to find crabbing and swearing in our athletic teams, no matter how the game should happen to be going. Lately however we have been fortunate in having coaches with principal who do not advocate this sort of thing but rather advocate a word of encouragement which perhaps can account for the many more victories gained in our sports. The mind of the school has been raised and students now look for more than victories—that of playing the game clean but hard. It is the same in life, fellow students. Look for something higher than victories—the art of playing the game of life fair and clean. Think of something besides gaining things—that of giving something, and when the harvest comes you will find that you have reaped more than you have sown. So we can say with Longfellow

*“Let us then be up and doing
With a heart for any fate
Still achieving, still pursuing Learn to labor and to wait.”*

CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1920 a band of Pilgrims about fifty in number landed on the rocky-bound shores of St. Clair High.

The main purpose in coming to the new land was to seek higher education and intellectual development. This band of Pilgrims drew up a new form of gov't having for their leader Melvin Brines and for their colony minister of finance Wm. Engelgau, assisted by 8 other cabinet members.

After months of hard work these colonists were entertained by their Pilgrim neighbors, the Soph's at the City Hall. Several more months having passed we returned this act of courtesy by giving our new found friends a dancing party in the Garden Auditorium. After much success as pioneers in this new country we finished our first year and a short vacation started us on our second year with a loss of about 10 members.

Our little colony was dwindling but we did not give up hope although we lost our place of shelter and found temporary refuge in the various churches which were inadequate to our needs. We were encouraged somewhat by the arrival of two new colonists. We welcomed to our shores a new band of Pilgrims by giving them a dance in the Garden Auditorium.

After many hard knocks we again pulled thru with the assistance of our faithful guardians the teachers and under the capable leadership of Melvin Brines and a new cabinet.

We closed the second year after much hard study and entered into our third year repaid for such intensive study and inconvenience by knowledge gained and as we drew near our goal the way was made easier by the new building. Several new courses were added to our curriculum. This year Charles Moore assisted by Dorothy Beyschlag, Helen Thompson, and Blanchard Cleland led us safely through.

During this eventful year we were entertained by our upper classmen with a sleigh-ride party and at the end of the year we bid them a last farewell at the Banquet. After the departure of the wise ones we moved a step higher seeking more wisdom. The perils of the journey proved too much for some but we picked up some others who were dropped by the preceding colonies. To bring us through our last years in this strange shore and to guide us safely out on the high seas we chose Charles Moore again and his able assistants Katherine Balfour, Helen Thompson and Wm. Engelgau. To maintain our colony for a time we gave a Senior Coffee. Then next in line came the Indoor Circus. This proved to be a great success, thanks to the able assistance of Mr. Schalm and other members of the faculty. Another event taking place in this year was the Benefit Movie at the Garden. We were amply rewarded for our labor in this also.

This little colony was flourishing and soon would be able to break away from the Mother Country. As we neared the end of our last year great efforts were put forth that we might reach our goal successfully and we broke away fully satisfied that we had done so.

CREED

We the class of '24 upon starting out on another phase of our life will always think of the cherished memories of old St. Clair High.

While in school we have more than tried to emphasize the true meaning of the "square deal" policy. We have tried hard to keep the standards especially the moral standards of our school high. We have tried to live as we would have others live. We feel sure that our success, if we may call it that, is not due wholly to ourselves but to the encouragement of the whole school. Although we may depart from the High school life, we shall never forget the friendships made there and as our last words we wish the greatest of success to the school and its benefactors.

CLASS WILL

—O—

We the members of the Senior Class of St. Clair High School, City of St. Clair, St. Clair County, State of Michigan, about to pass out of the school community, do hereby swear and take oath this 13th day of June in the year One-Thousand-Nine-Hundred and Twenty-Four bequeath the following:

To the Football candidates any old pants or jerseys they may find laying around.

Charles Ash, leaves the Football captaincy to Joe Joachim.

To Pick Powers, Katherine Balfour's ability to get high marks.

Helen Baker leaves the High Point Scoring on the Basket Ball team to Marvel Singleton.

To Neil Conlin, Arthur Beaudua's loud noise.

To Franklin Moore and Leo Goss, Dorothy Beyschlag and Vera Blackhall leave all their belongings, including themselves.

To John Osborn, Dick Chase's athletic feats.

To Eldon Jerome, Jack Dere's slim figure.

To Mr. Schalm the political Science class leaves their stale gum.

To Lucille Burkholder, Helen Radike's gentle nature.

To the Teachers, Charles Moore leaves his unanswerable questions for them to solve.

To Mildred Cottrell, Lucretia Patterson's pep.

To Bob Markle, Helen Pratt's love affairs.

To Clara Kennedy, Marion Westrick's success as a flapper.

To the pitchers on the Baseball team of '25 Tom Robbins leaves his record of Strike Outs.

To Francis Walter, Madeline Smith's giggles.

Marie Hartlein, Charlotte Ruff, and Verona Wilson are going to bob their hair (they being the only three in the class without bobbed hair) and leave it for a hair mat for the Gym.

To James Boden, Charles Zimmer's seat in the Library.

To Alice Volsteadt, Dorothy Beyschlag's position in the Gym after four o'clock (during basket ball season.)

Art Beaudua leaves "Tom" Watson to the tender mercies of Nelson Ferguson.

To Crescence Wilson, Louis Ruff's ability to sleep in classes.

To Johnnie Schlinkert, Chuck Moore's and Ernie Welser's prospects of a misplaced eyebrow.

To Bruce Schlinkert, Charles Ash leaves his Sophomore friend.

Judy Wells leaves her position in Mr. Beecher's office to any one badly in need of a credit.

To the Junior Class, the Seniors leave (with regret) their enjoyable study of Emerson's essays.

To Mrs. Maw all waste paper left in the table drawers of the Library.

To the Girls' Basket Ball team the hopes for success in winning back the lost honor cup.

Signed this 13th day of June, One thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, in the presence of his honor, Justice Hayward.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK, JUNE, 1940

(The Prophecy)

Scene I. Broadcasting station S. C. H. S. Outer room. "Do you really like that idea? I think it will work out good and I know that the members of the class of '24 will hop into it with the old time cooperation and every one will have a telegram in tomorrow, so that tomorrow night's program will be pulled off in fine shape.. You understand Mr. Adolph," said the announcer of the Radio Broadcasting station S. C. H. H. "that in regards to tomorrow night's Alumni program I broadcasted over the country a request that every member of the class that graduated back in 1924, send in a telegram tomorrow to this station telling of their occupation and their success along those lines and to be read over the radio that night, so that all members of the class will be able to tune in and hear the whereabouts of the other thirty-three members. "By the way, Mr. Adolph' (who is at present Superintendent of schools, having taken the place of Mr. O. M. Misenar who was called and accepted the presidency at the University of Michigan) remarked the announcer "don't you believe the radio improvements have been wonderful these last few years and just to imagine that even public schools with a little aid are able to cope with current prices of equipment and broadcast some of the school activities, it gives the citizens an insight, an idea of what the children are doing and the great possibilities that lie within."

"You are right," returned Mr. Adolph "and this radio phone is apt to revolutionize our system of education, at least to those who are unable to go to high school." "Good night, Bill." "Good night" cried back the announcer "I'll be back a little after one P. M. tomorrow to check up on the telegrams. I look forward to an interesting program."

Scene II. Same place.

"Well I've had quite an amusing afternoon, lot of fun reading thirty-four telegrams," said the announcer as he neared the Superintendent. "You know our Alumni program is to start at 7:30 P. M. for the first we have some musical selections and about 8:30 we will be ready to read the telegrams.

There is quite a bit of enthusiasm among the old "grads" of that year that reside in this city and they are all set to listen in on the program.

"It is near 7:30 now, so I'll get things started.

He entered the broadcasting room and announced the numbers as they came; as they were nearly exhausted he left the room, went to his desk, brought back his pack of telegrams.

The last of the numbers was rendered and he started with his part of the program. "You have just listened to some splendid musical numbers, now, for the benefit of the members of the class of 1924 and everyone interested, I am going to read the substance of telegrams received this afternoon from the members of that class."

"As the secretary's book for that year was consulted it contained information as to the class officers. As President that class choose Charles Moore, and presidencies seemed to be calling him his wire stated he was acting Vice President of the Diamond Crystal Salt Co. His friends will be glad to hear of his promotion.

Being on the job in the early 20's I remember myself of some of the expectations of the Seniors. Katherine Balfour, Vice President, had a hankering to be a school teacher, but she has done more, according to information, she is a Dean at Albion.

Helen Thompson, Treasurer, took a leading part in school athletics and she has attained a good position as a physical director.

William Englegau, Secretary, generally clerked in a grocery and he hasn't got away from the old habit yet, as he is owner of a chain of grocery stores throughout the county.

Listeners, I will not take time to read the entire messages, but will give you at the best of my ability what they contain.

Starting as mail carrier is the best way to work up to a position in the President's Cabinet, states Charles Zimmer who is known the country over for his good work, as Postmaster General. From Washington comes another telegram, it is from the Judicial Dept. It is fine to know that Chas. Ash is Chief Justice.

True to predictions and youthful longings, we have a letter from John Biewer and Melvin Brines and they say that as President and Vice President of the Interlake Steamship Company they are doing a great business.

A telegram from Marysville. There was never a thought that anyone should locate there. What? Arthur Beaudua running the Bunce Creek Edison Plant, it was always supposed that he would be an electrician, and this he has done real well and succeeded in remarkable style.

It is nearing the time of elections and in this telegram Frances Cox assures the public of her candidacy for lieutenant governor.

Victor Chase writes from his training camp that he is working hard preparing for the Olympic Games. You will remember Dick made records throwing the javelin and in running performed some great feats.

Marjorie Mackley has just accepted the directorship of the choir in the Baptist Church. She has made a mark in musical circles of the state.

While along the musical lines, we read a telegram from Chicago stating that Jessie McCormick is playing violin in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

And here is a letter from the Comet Coaster Wagon Co., it is interesting so I will read verbatim.

St. Clair, Mich., June 18, 1940.

Mr. Chairman:—My husband works attentively running the Wagon Company and I find it amusing to be a housewife, find it very interesting. You will remember me as Vera Blackhall.

Yours sincerely,

MRS. LEO GOSS.

Julia Wells as private secretary to C. H. Wills finds the work more inviting every day.

Here is a wire from Detroit. Frederick Watson, Captain of the Greater Detroit, the king of the lakes. Seems as though sailing runs in the family.

A letter reveals that the Denishawn Dancers are playing this week at Cincinnati and Lucretia Patterson is on the list of characters.

Here is a queer one. "I enjoy life very much driving about in the Wills Ste. Clair roadster owned by the Vice-President of the Diamond Crystal Salt Co. Mrs. Helen Pratt-Moore."

Shanghai, China, is the place where Helen Radike is at for the present according to advanced information, where she is acting Y. W. C. A. Secretary.

The New York Yankees beat the Detroit Tigers yesterday 5-0. It was a no hit, no run game, one of the most unique in the history of baseball. Edward Robins turned in this game. Pitching like he used to in high school—generally victories.

Marie Hartlein has retained her thriving business along the transportation lines. She owns a bus line between Port Huron and Detroit.

Helen Baker is a girls coach and her team clashed with Helen Thompson's last winter for the state basket ball title, and they won an exciting game, although the superiority of the teams could hardly be compared.

The Ag. course at the high school did get two of the boys started on the right path. Ernest Welser, a state cow tester organizer and Elwin Fallis on the State Board of Horticulture is their duties.

Political Science calls its number and among them are John Deres a juror.

Harper Hospital has a nurse who is doing splendid and progressing rapidly. None other than Marion Westrick.

Don MacRae is acting as an electrical engineer at a factory in the river district.

Two more of the class have married, Verona Wilson and Leora Woods. Verona lives on Riverside, but Leora resides near Richmond.

Louis Ruff took a liking to flowers and is giving his life to growing them.

Madeline Smith made a visit to this school last week, she is working on the Extension Bureau for M. A. C.

When the World's championship typewriting contest was held it revealed an old star at that game who belonged to St. Clair. Charlotte Ruff took first honors.

Dorothy Beyschlag is teaching school.

Blanchard Cleland is advertising manager at the Diamond Crystal.

(Signing off. Good Night. (B. W. C.)

JUNIORS

We, the future class of 1925 entered the Freshman year with forty-nine members.

We entered High School life during the year that the new High School was under construction. Consequently we gleaned part of our education in the churches of the city.

As Sophomores, our numbers had decreased to twenty-nine, which was little more than one-half of our 1921-'22 class. However, we faced the year of '22-'23 with high spirits in the new High School building.

As Juniors, we are a much smaller class, our enrollment being twenty-two members. However, we are undaunted by this fact and we hope to prove our ability to cope with Senior problems and participate in all school activities next year, in spite of our size.

As a class, we are somewhat proud of our accomplishments in the various activities of High School life thus far. One of the activities in which we have played a rather prominent part is Athletics. Last year we boasted of two boys on the football team, one on the baseball team, and also one on the basket ball team. The girls, also, have helped to uphold the class record in Athletics, one being on the basket ball team and three on the baseball team. This year they have broken that record with five girls in basket ball, and three in baseball. The Junior boys have also done well this year in Athletics, three being letter men in football, three in basket ball, and one in baseball.

We also have brains as well as brawn. This is proved by the fact that a Junior won the local oratorical contest this year and also the local declamatory contest last year. The first and second prizes for the American Citizenship Essay Contest, sponsored by the local Knights of Pythias Lodge, have been won the last two years by students of our class.

In the Algonac-St. Clair contest this year, we entered four contestants. One of these contestants is also a debator on the debating team of '23-'24.

Money raising in our class has been a fairly successful venture. By means of various sales, we have been able to raise enough money for our various Junior Activities.

With the help and leadership of our class officers, Franklin Moore, President; Ruth Pelton, Vice President; Ellen Munger, Secretary and Ella Biewer, Treasurer, we have attained a large measure of success and honor in the past and it is the ambition of the class to do as well, if not better, in our school life next year.

SOPHOMORES

In the fall of 1922 fifty-six pupils were enrolled as members of the freshman class. When school opened in September 1923, the sophomore class, numbering forty, was the largest in the Senior High School.

The members of the class have taken an active part in all school events. They may be depended upon to support St. Clair High School with a real school spirit. Various members have figured prominently in the following school activities: Debate, declamation, music and literary meet; commercial contest; athletics; operetta. The class published the first issue of the Red and Blue school paper in November 1923.

The Sophomores are working hard to raise money which they will need in the Senior year. They now have eighty-eight dollars in the treasury including their investment in the Motion Picture Corporation.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Forty-five strong and with hopes of having a few more added and graduate with a class of half a hundred students and smashing all records of the local school for the number graduated in one year are expectations of the present Freshman class.

Each year there is a particular class that is outstanding in school life and activities. The Juniors or the class of '25 have had a small number to work with and their accomplishments have been limited. The Sophomores have a large class and have taken part in many things, they are a considerable athletic bunch, placing many of their members on teams. The most remarkable feat was that the leading characters for the best Operetta produced by the chorus "Gypsy Rover" were taken from the Sophomore class.

The Freshmen have just made their appearance and some might say well too, for if next year or the following year that one class is to be supreme among classes there may be proof enough to draw a conclusion as to whether or not the Freshman will be near the top.

It was up to a Freshman to place in an event which was never before done by any person in St. Clair County. This was the district declamatory contest, in which Eldon Wiest placed second. What is going to happen another year along this line?

The Freshmen have had students on the four major teams, and have always had a large number of scrub teams that finally make good. Baubie, Conat, Droulard, Edgette, Fink Bros, Guildenstein, Morrison, Pother, Randell, Richter, Simons, Smith, Tassie, Wiest, Zimmer and others will be banked upon to fill the many vacancies left on the teams.

The girls also have taken an active part in outside activities.

The class this year has had all the helpful services of Miss Hacking, Miss Stewart, and Mr. Berry as advisors.

The officers have taken hold of class affairs in a fine shape and are responsible for class doings the past year.

The officers are:

LITERARY

THE PEACE MAKERS

The boy dragged his bare feet reluctantly through the warm dust of the roadside, kicking up little yellow swirls of dust at every step. The starchy-aproned girl, walking promly a few paces ahead, expressed her irritation at the boorish conduct of the boy in no uncertain terms, but he only lagged further behind, kicking the clouds of dust a little higher.

At length the girl called to him impatiently: "Jimmy Brown, don't you hear the first bell ringing? You're going to be late to school if you don't hurry. And, for goodness sake, stop looking as though you had lost your last friend."

"Guess you'd look that way, too, if you knew what I know." The answer came with an air of sullen importance.

The girl's manner changed instantly and she became sweetly wheedling.

"What d'ye know, Jimmy? Tell me, please."

But it was the boy's turn now.

"Aw, girls can't keep secrets."

"Try me, Jimmy—only try me."

But the boy remained obdurate to her pleadings, until she hit upon a happy plan.

"Jimmy I'll give you my nickel that Auntie gave me to buy candy with, if you'll tell me."

The boy's eyes brightened and the secret came out at last.

"Teacher's goin'a be married!"

The girl's mouth formed a round O of amazement.

"Who told you, Jimmy?"

Jimmy explained volubly, over-anxious now to have a confidant to his woeful secret.

"Well, you know, teacher stays at Hackett's, and Fred told me that there was a city feller stayin' at Simpkins' summer hotel, what comes to see teacher every single night, an'—an'—Fred said he was a'lookin' out of the window one night and he saw that man kiss teacher at the gate. So, o'course they're goin'a be married. And, what d'ye s'pose we're goin'a do, Sue Brown, when teacher goes away? We won't have any more good times and like as not we'll have some cross old maid for a teacher. Oh, dear!"

The long speech ended in a sigh which was echoed by the girl. The remainder of the walk to school was made in silence, both children lost in contemplation of the dreary days to come. As they neared the little school house, they saw teacher coming slowly from the opposite direction, reading a letter.

"I s'pose that's a love letter she's readin' now," Jimmy remarked, and the two sighed again in concert.

Teacher met them at the door, but as she looked up from the letter, it was a very wan smile she gave them and the look in her eyes was as all joy in life had suddenly been killed for her. The boy and girl decided in hasty consultation that it must have been anything but a love letter that she had been reading. During the recess period, teacher, who usually joined the children in their games, sat at her desk, with pale face and clouded eyes. The more thoughtless of the children trooped out to play, unquestioningly. A few lingered to urge teacher to join them in their games, but went away when they saw the look of sorrow in the usually merry eyes. Only Jimmy remained in the room. Teacher was oblivious of his presence, as she sat with her head buried in her hands, and Jimmy saw tears trickle down between her fingers. Then she was roused by a soft touch on her arm and a childish voice, full of loving sympathy.

"Are you sorry you're goin'a be married, teacher?"

Her first impulse was that of anger, but when she looked into the upturned face, full of boyish sympathy, a smile curved her lips against her will.

"Why, Jimmy, who told you I was going to be married?"

I guess I can't tell you that, teacher bein' as Fr—Oh, I mean, he told me not to tell. But, it is true that you're goin'a be married, isn't it?"

Again the look of pain clouded the lovely eyes.

"No, Jimmy, no. Oh, no "

"Why—why, teacher, he kissed you. Sister says that when a man kisses a girl, it's sure sign they're goin'a be married.

Again teacher favored him with an amusedly tolerant smile.

"You seem to know a great deal about it, Jimmy, but run away now. Only rest assured that I'm not going to leave you soon."

"Oh, teacher, I'm so glad, but what is it makes you so sorry?"

"Jimmy," and the teacher's voice was stern now, "you must go out and play. Recess is almost over. Come, I am going, too."

That evening, as the boy and girl were going home from school, Jimmy told the joyful news, but it was greeted with a disdainful sniff.

"Huh, I knew that a long time ago."

"How d'you know it?"

"Well, teacher sent me in after her handkerchief at recess, after you and she came out to play, and that letter was a-layin' open on her desk. I just peeked at it, out o' the corner of my eye, and saw it was signed A. Ward. That's that city feller's name 'cause M'ria Simpkins said it was. Then I looked at the last few lines and this is what it said. I wrote it down so I wouldn't forget it: 'I hope that I have at least furnished you with a few months' amusement, even if you have tired of me so soon. I am convinced, by means which I cannot discuss here, that our engagement is irksome to you, so I am writing to give you your release.' " The girl read the big words with difficulty. "I don't understand what it all means only that teacher doesn't want to marry him, and I'm glad she doesn't."

Jimmy's eyes looked all the indignation that his eight years were capable of carrying.

"I don't know what the big words mean, but they must be something to make teacher awfully sorry, 'cause I know that letter made her cry," and, Jimmy's eyes flashed, "I'm going to go and make that man 'pologize for writin' that letter."

"Aw, Jimmy," taunted the girl, "you're afraid. There he is now, on Mrs. Simpkins' porch. Bet you're afraid to go tell him."

"Maybe I am afraid," said Jimmy, frankly, for he felt his knees tremble at the sight of the big man sprawled out in one of Mrs. Simpkins' diminutive porch chairs, "but I'm goin' to make him 'pologize."

Whereupon Jimmy marched boldly up the walk and came to a halt before the man, who looked at him in questioning amazement for a moment and then greeted him cheerily.

"What can I do for you, my man?"

"I want you to 'pologize for makin' teacher cry," came in Jimmy's sternest tones.

Wh—what do you mean?" The amused twinkle in the man's eye gave place to astonishment.

"I mean," and Jimmy's voice was still steady, although he felt his knees tremble, "that that letter you wrote to teacher this morning made her cry and I'm not goin'a let anybody make teacher cry without 'pologizin' for it. If you said anything to insult her you've got to take it back 'cause I know it ain't so."

"Jimmy," the man caught him by the arm with a grip that hurt, and looked eagerly into his eyes "Jimmy, are you sure she cried?"

"Yes, she cried, and sat at her desk all day, lookin' so sorry. Now, are you ready to 'pologize?" Jimmy's voice was gaining in boldness until it was quite stern enough now to terrify even the man before him.

"Yes, Jimmy, yes," and the man appeared more relieved than otherwise. "I beg your pardon a thousand times. You see, Jimmy, I thought that what I wrote her would make her glad, but if it made her sorry—well, Jimmy, I can't tell you how glad I am."

Of course this was all unintelligible to Jimmy, but he ran down the road after Sue, glad in the feeling of triumph that came from having made the "city feller" apologize.

A few hours later, as teacher sat at her desk, wearily correcting papers and putting things to rights before she left the little school house, she was startled to hear familiar footsteps crossing the porch and entering the tiny vestibule. The warm blood rushed to her face when the man stood before her, but she sat, silently, with bowed head.

Then his deep voice came to her ears: "Jimmy tells me my letter made you cry. Oh, girl, I never dared hope for that."

The answer was so low that he found it necessary to bend his head to hear.

"How could you think it would be otherwise?"

"Let me explain," he began, eagerly, but was interrupted by the low, sweet voice.

"You need not explain. I know. But why would you believe that prattling village gossip?"

"Can you forgive me?" His voice came tenderly, insistently, pleading. "It was only because I loved you so that I couldn't bear the slightest suggestion that you were only amusing yourself with me. I know I've shown myself totally unworthy of you, but if you'll only give me one more chance, I think I can prove to you that I've learned my lesson."

Of course, his pleading won the day, and after the quarrel was all smoothed over, the dimples dancing about teachers' mouth, and the merriment sparkling in her eyes, she said:

"So it was Jimmy told you. Dear little fellow, I think we owe him a tribute of thankfulness. Let's go and find him now."

The man assented and the two went down the road in the gathering dusk. Before they reached Jimmy's house, he had espied them from his vantage-point on the gate-post, and came running to meet them. He greeted his beloved teacher delightedly but looked askance at the man, who was saying something to him in an amusedly indulgent tone.

"Well, Jimmy, I've apologized and everything's all right."

"Yes, Jimmy," teacher added, "you see, I'm not sorry any more." Then she whispered something into Jimmy's ear which created an outburst.

"Oh, no, teacher, not that. You promised me you wouldn't. Why, teacher, what will I do if you go away with him?" and Jimmy's little brown finger pointed scornfully at the man who still looked into the boy's indignant eyes amusedly.

"Listen, my little man," the deep voice broke in, "I can understand your jealousy perfectly, and I would like to do something to atone to you for the loss of your teacher. Would you mind telling me the thing you would like most in all this world?"

Jimmy looked at him in astonishment, but the cloud partially cleared from his face as he tried to think of the thing he wanted most. Then teacher whispered something in his ear which caused his eyes to dance.

"I know, Mr. A. Ward. I want you to promise never to take teacher away to the city."

The man looked from one to the other, smilingly.

"I'm afraid you two are plotting against me, but I suppose I must give my promise since you both desire it. Rest assured, Jimmy, that I'll never take your teacher away from this charming old village, until both you and she give your consent."

After the man and the girl were gone, Jimmy remarked in a confidential tone aside to Sue:

"The city feller's a real nice man, after all."

STORY OF THE PLAY

Owing to the ill health of their father, who is in England, the young Dangerfields are financially embarrassed and have decided to lease their beautiful home in Virginia to a wealthy Northerner, who takes it with the conditions that there will be no negro servants around.

At the last moment the staff of white servants fail to arrive and until a new staff can be found the four young Dangerfields decide to act as servants. The wealthy young northerner falls in love with Olivia, the eldest, Alias Jane Ellen, the cook, suspecting that Jane Ellen is only playing a part. Olivia revealing her true identity and returning Crane's love, brings the play to a close.

DEBATING 1924

The Debating class of 1924 was composed of nine members. There were two teams made out of this group. The following composed the Affirmative: Louis Ruff, Arthur Beaudua, Crescence Wilson and Verona Wilson. The Negative team was composed of Marjorie Mackley, Norma Sines, and Evelyn Watson.

The first debate of the season was held in St. Clair, Dec. 4, with Marine City. St. Clair defended the affirmative side of the question and Marine City the negative. The result of this debate was St. Clair being victorious 2-1.

The second debate of the season was held in St. Clair, Dec. 17, St. Clair again defending the affirmative side of the question. While our opponents, New Baltimore defended the negative side. This again resulted in a complete victory for St. Clair, 4-0.

The third debate of the season was held in Marine City, Jan. 21. This time St. Clair having the negative and Marine City the affirmative. This was another victory for St. Clair, 2-1.

The fourth and final debate of the season was held at Yale, Feb. 12. This was the hardest debate of the season, St. Clair having been victorious in three debates and Yale also being victorious in three. The team left St. Clair about 5 o'clock and reached their destination about 7 o'clock. The roads were hardly passable on account of the heavy snow storm. After waiting for the judges about 3½ hours the debate started. The result was that Yale was victorious 2-1. This closed one of the most successful debating season of St. Clair High School. The victory of the teams this year is due to Mrs. Maw who coached them with her utmost ability. All the members on the teams were new, but by able assistance they have risen to the top.

AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION

Second row, left to right—Burnice Blakey, Edward Powers, Leora Woods, Earnest Welser, Katherine Balfour, Elwin Fallis, Madeline Smith, Nellie Wuest.

THE AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION

The aim of this association is to arouse greater interest among the younger generation, in agriculture; and to bring about a greater spirit of cooperation among the country people and the towns people. The motto of this organization is "For the Best Interest of Agriculture." The association was organized in 1922 under the direction of Mr. Adolph, the local agriculture instructor, and a constitution was drawn up, by which the association should be governed.

It has become the custom of the association to, each year, appropriate a certain sum of money to send some of its members to Lansing the Farmer's Week Convention. This year the Aggies accomplished this object by putting on a Cider Social at the Gleaner Hall on the Hart Road; and last year an oyster supper was held. But perhaps the most important event of the association as yet was the "Mother and Dad Banquet" which was held on the evening of April the 8th in the Agriculture Department. Between forty and fifty people were present to enjoy the banquet and the speeches which followed. Several toasts were given by the students but the address of the evening was delivered by Mr. Gallup, a man prominent in agricultural affairs. Since the Agriculture Association was organized a great deal has been accomplished through the splendid leadership of Mr. Adolph and we are hoping that still greater things may be accomplished in future years.

MR. BEECHER'S HI-Y GROUP

MR. BEECHER'S GROUP

This group is composed of ten senior fellows with Mr. Beecher as leader. This group met every Monday night in the domestic science room at 7 o'clock. At the first meeting they elected the following officers: President, Melvin Brines; Vice President, Blanchard Cleland; Secretary, Fred Watson; Treasurer, Edward Robins. From this group of ten fellows eight of them attended the state conference at Ann Arbor and five of them attended the county conference at Yale. This spring they put on track meets at the different rural schools to get an idea of what material there is in these schools for future track teams for St. Clair High School.

MR. GERKE'S "Y" GROUP

MR. GERKE'S GROUP

In this group there are twelve juniors and sophomores and Mr. Gerke is their leader. The officers of this group are as follows: President, Nelson Armstrong; Vice President, Alfred Debor; Secretary-Treasurer, Harlo Meno. They met every Thursday night in the domestic science room. The biggest social event of the year was a party given on May 2, this included every member with one invited guest. This group is looking forward to a big year next year with most of its members back again.

SENIOR GIRLS' "Y" GROUPS

GIRLS' SENIOR HI-Y GROUPS

The first "Y" was started in the year 1922 and was made up of the girls who went to Camp Goodtime the preceeding summer. Miss Ruth Johnson was the first leader and before the class of the year several new girls joined. The group was divided and group two formed under the leadership of Miss Alice Howe. This year there are four groups. The Senior group is led by Miss Howe and the Junior by Miss Wilson.

MRS. HILBERT'S AND MISS BARNHART'S "Y" GROUP

GIRLS' HI-Y GROUPS

These two groups were organized this year. The tenth and ninth uniting and having Mrs. Lucile Hilbert for their leader. The seventh and eighth grades combined with Miss Rebecca Barnhart as leader.

The girls' pledge for St. Clair High School is:

"I pledge to maintain the highest standard of Christian living, within my power, by public and personal devotion and service to God through service to others.

MISS MARY STEWART

MUSIC

One of the most important departments in our whole school is the music department. About every student in school is connected with this department in some way or other. In this department are both Junior and Senior Choruses, Boys and Girls Clubs, Boys Quartet and the orchestra.

Everybody is very well acquainted with the class of work these departments are and have been doing especially the Chorus. The first operetta given under the direction of Miss Mary Stewart was the Captain of Plymouth. This being about the first of its kind was very well received and all waited anxiously for the next year to come around.

The next was the Belles of Beaujolais which was the most successful of all. The chorus was very ably assisted by Magdalena Ruff, Erwin Pollex, Mary Powrie, Florence Mowrer, Frederick Gliem.

This year the operetta entitled "The Gypsy Rover" was given. This was entirely the work of the chorus; heretofore they have always had outside assistance. It was a very great success.

The Boy's Glee Club of 1922, composed of Charles Moore, Frederick Gleim, Reed Jerome and Russel Mortinger will long be remembered. Although the Boys' Glee Club of this year is no more than a double quartet it is the best Glee Club in the history of our Hi-School day.

The Girls' Glee Club has been doing very well too having presented a very well prepared cantata.

The orchestra of St. Clair Hi was started under the direction of the capable Dr. F. Bacon, but he was unable to take charge of this very long because of his leaving town. His work was taken up by Mr. Wilson of the U. of M. At this time we were making our daily rounds to the churches to secure our education, and orchestra practice was held in the Congregational Church. In the year 1922 Miss Stewart took charge of it and has since very ably directed this group.

Remember the time, about a dozen boys were late for chorus and Miss Stewart sent them to Beecher for an excuse and on the way back to the Methodist Church they picked a big corsage bouquet of dandelions and put the pink slip in the center and Arthur Smith very majestically presented it to her? What did Miss Stewart do? Why, stepped right out and received them with thanks of course.

MARY ZIMMER

The Gregg Club was organized in October, 1923, and is composed of the members of the Gregg Shorthand Class. The purpose of the Club is both educational and social. The social activities have consisted of evenings of entertainment at the homes of various members, and the educational side culminated in an interesting trip to Detroit in May, where the Northern High School, Ford Motor Company plant and offices, Burroughs Adding Machine Company, and General Motors, Inc., were visited. To help defray the expenses of this trip, the Gregg Club undertook the publishing of the March Red and Blue, which netted them a profit.

The Club was represented at Port Huron at the district contest of the Michigan State High School Shorthand and Typewriting Contest, by Jessie and Julia McCormick.

SOPHOMORES AND JUNIORS ENTERTAIN THE SENIORS

The Seniors will not forget the party given in their honor by the Sophomores and Juniors. There was a large attendance in spite of the weather.

The gym. which was appropriately decorated in Blue and White and was divided, half being used for dancing, music furnished by the Black Cat

Orchestra. The other half given over to those who did not wish to dance and who enjoyed various games under the direction of Mr. Schalm.

Refreshments consisting of Coffee and Cookies were served at 10:30.

The faculty guests were Mr. and Mrs. Schalm, Mr. Berry, Miss Hirsch, and Mr. Adolph.

SENIOR CIRCUS

In order to raise money for the Annual fund and various other expenses the Seniors voted to put on a circus. Much credit is due to the various committees and the untiring efforts of our class president, who made it a success.

Some of the attractions were the ice-cream and hot dog stands and the dancing in the gym, while the side shows distributed in the lower hall, included a baby show and fish pond.

A minstrel show was put on by the Boys' Glee Club and an act under the direction of Mr. Berry. The circus was given two nights, Dec. 7 and 8.

WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY

The Senior High entertained the Junior High Feb. 22.

The Junior High showed their appreciation by being well represented. Dancing was the feature of the evening. Punch and wafers were served.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION PARTY

On April 11 the Athletic Association gave a dance and everyone was invited. The attendance was small but those attending reported a good time. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Harmer and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Gearing.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

Saturday evening, May 31st the Juniors entertained the Seniors at the annual banquet, held in the gymnasium and served willingly by the Junior mothers. The gymnasium was prettily decorated in class colors.

Tables were set for a gathering of about sixty. At the conclusion of the banquet short talks were given by students and teachers. Mr. Earl Berry acted toastmaster and handled the job in a manner that will long be remembered by those present. Mr. Berry was overflowing with a fluent line of jokes that kept every one in the best of moods.

The program carried out the comparison of a ship and its course to our school, its pupils and the destiny of them.

FOOTBALL

The season of 1923 saw one of the best gridiron machines that had ever represented St. Clair High School. The success of the team was due largely to the efforts put forth by Coach E. A. Gerke in his determination to build a winning team.

The real strength of the team was brought out by the total number of points scored. The Red and Blue team scored 251 points to their opponents 21, and was picked by most critics as the best team in the county league, although they finished in the runner-up position, losing to Marine City in a crucial game, 7-0.

The team was well versed in all departments of the game. The backs and linemen worked in perfect unison. In Chase, Englegau, Cleland and Capt. Ash the team had the most versatile set of backs that ever represented St. Clair High. The work of the linemen, however, cannot be disregarded. They proved themselves to be a tower of strength on both offense and defense.

Algonac 0—S. C. H. S. 39

The Algonac game was the first county game, and the Red and Blue warriors started out like wild fire. The interference was working well and the backs had no trouble in circulating the ends for long runs. Everybody showed up well especially Capt. Ash and Vic Chase.

Richmond 7—S. C. H. S. 0

In the Richmond game a week later we met a heart breaking defeat. We will give Richmond credit of having a very good team, but we don't like the way they treat their visitors. Even in defeat and against odds the Red and Blue men played a wonderful and clean game.

St. Stephens 0—S. C. H. S. 14

In the St. Stephens game the Red and Blue men had an off day. Coming through with a win, but with great effort. We must give St. Stephens credit for having a good scrappy team, and playing a mighty clean game.

Croswell 7—S. C. H. S. 31

On Oct. 26. the team traveled to Croswell. Before the day was over they had shown them that they didn't have such a strong team up there in the thumb. Things were going fine until Capt. Ash received a bad crack on the hip and was out the rest of the game. It took the rest of the team a full quarter to gather itself together and begin to score again. All of the linemen did fine work on defense that day. In the back field Baldy and Vic clipped off long runs. While Bill kept the ball away from our goal line with his trusty toe. Bruce kicked a beautiful drop kick in the final quarter of the game, not saying anything of the long passes that were gathered in by Beaudua and Conlin.

Marine City 7—S. C. H. S. 0

The Marine City game a week later was an affair that is unexplained. The Red and Blue men had an off day, and when the smoke of the battle had cleared away the down River School was in the lead 7-0.

Marysville 0—S. C. H. S. 56

The Marysville game was an interesting game to watch. The wet and slippery field made the going for the backs a little bit difficult, but nevertheless they managed to accumulate 56 points during the time of play.

Yale 0—S. C. H. S. 72

The Yale game played in a drizzling rain was a sad affair for the back county team. All of the Red and Blue warriors were awake with an eagle eye on the ball so that no opportunity would slip by without getting in possession of the ball in a legal way. Any type of play seemed to work, and by the score many of them worked for touchdowns.

Alumni 0—S. C. H. S. 39

The Alumni game on Thanksgiving day concluded the season. The ex-graduates having a good team but no organization.

BASKETBALL

The Basket Ball team of 1923-24 kept up the record made by the football squad and finished second in the county league standing.

Although the team got away to a poor start, losing two of the first three games played, they came back strong and lost but one game during the remainder of the season. The team scored 259 points to their opponents 188. Twelve games were played during the season, nine of which were won and three lost.

SUMMARY OF SEASON

Yale 20—S. C. H. S. 24

The first game of the season was played with Yale on the local floor. The team was not in the best condition but managed to win.

BOYS' BASKET BALL TEAM

Marysville 25—S. C. H. S. 6

The next game was played at Marysville. Marysville put a veteran team on the floor and won easily from their less experienced rivals. It is to be regretted that we could not have played them later in the season, when our team was 50 per cent. stronger.

Washington Jr. High 22—S. C. H. S. 6

The following night the team journeyed to Washington Jr. High and absorbed their second defeat of the season.

Capac 7—S. C. H. S. 11

The next game was played at Capac. Although the Red and Blue warriors were handicapped by a small floor, their passing and basket shooting showed improvement.

Marysville 24—S. C. H. S. 21

A week later we again played Marysville and were again defeated, this time by a very close score. The Red and Blue quintet had a commanding lead at the end of the half but the third quarter proved our nemesis and the Dreamers forged ahead. A desperate rally in the last period failed for the locals by three points, and the hope for county honors was shattered.

Marine City 12—S. C. H. S. 27

The week following the heart-breaking defeat at the hands of the league leading Marysville quintet, our ancient foemen, Marine city invaded our city, and were forced to accept a decisive defeat. The Red and Blue machine worked smoothly and was never in danger after the half-way mark.

Algonac 1—S. C. H. S. 38

The next victory was administered to Algonac. St. Clair put up a strong defense, allowing the visitors but one tally.

Washington Jr. High 20—S. C. H. S. 25

On the following night the Red and Blue team was responsible for the only defeat that Washington Jr. High suffered during the season. The visitors annexed the Junior state championship for 1923-24.

Marine City 7—S. C. H. S. 10

A week later we met Marine City again on their own floor, and once more defeated them. The game was close with St. Clair leading by one point when Powers, star guard, made a spectacular shot from mid floor as the final whistle blew.

Capac 15—S. C. H. S. 44

Our next game was with Capac on the home floor. The local offense was working smoothly, with Conlin, Powers, and Robins leading the scoring attack.

Yale 16—S. C. H. S. 17

The next game was played at Yale. Most of the team failed to reach Yale on scheduled time, when they lost a fierce battle to King Winter, who threw up a powerful defense of snow which the Red and Blue team was unable to penetrate. With a team composed mostly of substitutes who managed to get there on time St. Clair won a hard fought victory.

Mt. Clemens Fresh—S. C. H. S.

The final game of the season was a triumph over the Mt. Clemens freshman squad. The teams were tied at the half, but the local boys went into the lead in the third quarter, when Cleland and Brines got their eye on the net. Several players made their last appearance on the hardwood in a Red and Blue uniform. Those who are lost to the squad through graduation are Cleland, Brines, Beaudua, McRae, and Robins.

BOYS' BASEBALL TEAM

Standing, left to right—John Deres, Elwin Fallis, Joe Joachim, Arthur Beaudua, Edward Robins, E. A. Gerke, Coach.

BASEBALL

The season of 1924 promises to be one of the best diamond years that followers of the Red and Blue teams have ever witnessed, although at the time of this writing the season has hardly begun.

Granting that it is a little too early to make any rash predictions or promises, and that many things can happen between the month of showers and the time when the curtain is rung down at the close of the county league schedule, Coach Gerke and his proteges are confident that they will finish at the top of the heap.

Seven former letter men are available for the team, which means that most of the players have seen one or two years of service, while four of the veterans are playing their third or fourth year.

TRACK

The Red and Blue track team also promises to have a banner year. Although no definite workouts have taken place as yet, the strength of the team is based on last year's showing at the county track meet, when the St. Clair thinly clad finished in the runner-up position. Coach Gerke has several men back out of which to form a nucleus for a winning team.

L. Ruff, who won the 100 yard dash and placed third in the 220 yard dash and shot put, will be back for his final appearance. Likewise Vic Chase is expected to cop the javelin throw, which he easily took last year with a heave of 150 feet.

Although it is not known definitely at the time of this writing who will compose the track squad, the following is a fairly authentic list of the aspirants and their entries:

Ruff	-	-	-	-	100 yard dash—Shot put—220 yard dash—Relay
Chase	-	-	-	-	Javelin throw—Broad jump—One half mile run—Relay
B. Schlinkert	-	-	-	-	High jump—100 yard dash
Fallis	-	-	-	-	Discus throw—440 yard dash
Deres	-	-	-	-	High jump
J. Schlinkert	-	-	-	-	220 yard dash—Relay
Ralston	-	-	-	-	440 yard dash
Beaudua	-	-	-	-	Pole vault
Edgette	-	-	-	-	One half mile run

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

The Girls' Athletic Association was organized under Miss Florence Mowrer in 1923, the first year we had our new High School building and also the first year St. Clair had a gymnasium instructor.

The first year was a very prosperous and busy one, and at the end of which one hundred and eighty-six dollars was invested in gymnasium equipment.

The Girls' Basketball team of 1923 won the County Championship cup; the first team of St. Clair High School to get such County Honors.

The Girls' Baseball team of 1923 was also very successful, winning every game and also the county title at Tashmoo Park on Field Day, June the 8th.

The Girls' Athletic Association was again organized in 1924 and elected the following officers:

KATHERINE BALFOUR	-	-	-	-	President
LUCRETIA PATTERSON	-	-	-	-	Vice President
EVELYN WATSON	-	-	-	-	Secretary
MARVEL SINGLETON	-	-	-	-	Treasurer
HELEN THOMPSON	-	-	-	-	Business Manager
ALICE WALTER	-	-	-	-	Assistant Business Manager

March the 8th, the County Athletic Association met at Yale to draw up baseball schedules, settle county honors, etc. It was decided to award penants to teams losing cups and to carry this back to three years ago. According to the Girls' Basketball team of 1923 will have a penant to replace the cup they lost. This will be a remembrance of the very successful team of 1923. Helen Thompson represented the St. Clair Girls' Athletic Association, while Mr. Gerke and Melvin Brines represented the boys.

The first play of this year to be given was "The Toy Shoppe," from which a profit of seventy-five dollars was realized.

On March 20th, the "Man From the Moon" was presented by members of the Girls' Athletic Association and was very successful; a profit of ninety dollars was realized, one hundred and eighteen dollars being made altogether. The same play was presented in Marine City, April 7th, under the Marine City Girls' Athletic Association, which is under the direction of Miss Dorothy Stammer.

BASKETBALL 1923-1924

The basket ball squad met January 4th and elected Helen Thompson Captain for '24.

The first game was played on the local court, Jan. 4th with Yale. No regular team had as yet been appointed so a whole new team was run in the first half and the last year's team with two new members, took their place in the second half. Yale won by five points; the final score being 17-22.

The next game was played at Marysville, January the 11th, where the girls knew they would have a hard game as Marysville had a strong team. They were there with the work, spirit and determination to win that game. At the end of the first half defeat stared the local team in the face but they thought of the county cup at home and went into the game at the second half with more spirit than ever and no view except victory. They soon shot ahead of the opponents and when the final whistle blew the score was 26-31 in St. Clairs' favor.

Jan. the 18th the local team journeyed to Capac. The girls played a good game and both teams were well matched; which resulted in a very close and fast game. Score being 17-21 in Capac's favor.

Jan. 25th Marysville came to St. Clair and were defeated in a very slow game in which St. Clair was ahead in every respect, especially the team work which was the best this year. Score 8-29.

Marine City came to St. Clair Feb. 1st and was defeated; the work of St. Clair being very good they held the visiting team down and the game was one sided all the way through. The final score being 3-31; St. Clair.

St. Clair defeated Algonac on the local floor, on Feb. 8th by the score of 36-22.

St. Clair went to Marine City Feb. 15th and played the best game of the season. Marine City had a better and stronger line up which resulted in a very hard struggle on both sides. St. Clair girls each played their part especially well and fast, which resulted in a defeat for Marine City. Score 10-15.

Capac Girls came to St. Clair Feb. 22 and expected to defeat the local team again. Being on the home floor and the team in better condition than at the former game with the same team St. Clair won. Score 11-20. Charlotte Burke and Crescence Wilson took the place of the regular centers and played a very good part in the game.

March the 7th the Basket Ball team started for Yale at five o'clock, the snow was drifting and the roads were bad which resulted in cold tiresome trip. Yale was reached about 7:30 o'clock, after much trouble and being hauled out of snowbanks; all except two members of the team were present. After waiting over two hours two subs were run in and a very fast game started. St. Clair in spite of the trips and absence of both first team centers, managed to keep Yale on the jump and at a close score until the third quarter, then St. Clair had lost all energy and Yale ran their score up. All members of the team played a very good game, especially the girls who played center at such short notice. There is no doubt that St. Clair would have won if the team had been in good condition and all members present.

St. Clair Girls' lost the cup they won last year but are fully confident that next year's team will get it back. They have good material for a successful team.

JOKES

JOKES

OUR BRIGHT UN

*There's a bright looking student,
In our little school,
Doing everything he shouldn't,
He's a dear little soul.*

*He's always writing poems
About our teachers at school,
And sends them right home
To be printed in the Red and Blue.*

*Last month he wrote one,
About our teacher small and fair,
We bet if he found him out,
He'd drag him out of class by the hair.*

*He's a farmer, By Crack;
A five footer eight,
The kind you would hate,
To soak you in the hat.*

*You ask for his name,
But you're pleading in vain,
I can't give up his home
Or he'll soak me in the dome.*

PROF. SQUEESUM

Miss Mowrer (As Mr. Gerke was taking his leave)—“Don't tell anyone that you brought me home, will you?”

Mr. Gerke—“Never fear, I am as much ashamed of it as you are.”

Mr. Schalm—“Where did you get all those principals of yours, at your mother's knee?”

F. Watson—“No, over my fathers.”

It was in the traffic court. The officer told his story. The defendant stepped up, the judge took him in hand. The him happened to be Mr. Adolph.

Judge—“The officer says you were going down Riverside at 20 miles per hour.”

Mr. A.—“Very well, your honor.”

Judge—“Hum,—you are the first motorist that I saw that didn't get angry with the officer.”

Adolph—“Well it's the first compliment paid my old bus.”

"Where did you put that hoe I saw you wid?"

"It's gone entirely, I kent find it nowhere."

"Then I'll break every bone in yer body wid it if you don't find it."

He—"Last night I dreamt that I was married to the most beautiful girl in the world."

She—"Oh, George! Were we happy?"

Mr. Gerke—"Have you got your excuse for Wednesday?"

Dick C. (Napping)—"Naw."

Gerke—"Better go and get it then."

Dick (Waking up)—"What did you say I was to get?"

C. Moore (In class meeting)—"I will read your names out if not right yell out."

Mr. Misenar—"If you don't like your name now's your chance to change it."

"I hear that Hank had an accident."

"Yes, someone gave him a tiger cub, and told him it would eat off his hand."

"Well?"

"It did."

Teacher—"Give for one year the number of tons of coal shipped out of U. S. A."

Fresh—"1492, none."

She (Moonlight, etc.)—"Do you know what a dumb waiter is?"

He—"Sure an undeveloped elevator for hotels, etc."

She—"I should say not. It's a man who asks a girl for a kiss and waits for her to say 'yes.'"

Soph.—"There's a town in Massachusetts named after you."

Fresh—"Yes. What's its name?"

Soph.—"Marblehead."

As far as we can see the only way to abolish the Ku Klux Klan is to corner the sheet market.

He—"What do you think of the community drive?"

She—"No, let's go out into the country where its dark."

Art B.—"How much do you weigh?"

Tom Watson—"110."

Art B.—"With or without your complexion?"

"My dear, you surely haven't spent the whole afternoon at the Scandal's?"

"Yes, Auntie, they said such things about every one who left that I didn't dare come away."

*There was a thin maiden called Lena,
Who bought a new vacuum Cleana,
But she got in the way
Of its suction one day,
And since then nobody has seena.*

A TRAGEDY

*Johnnie hung his little sister.
She was dead before they misst her.
Johnnie's allus up to trix.
Ain't he cute?—he's only six.*

*John has gone from bad to worse,
Now his fathers in a hearse,—
Smeared him with a load of bricks.
Ain't he cute?—he's only six.*

*Johny saw a buzz saw buzz
Like a bike he thought it wuzz.
Johny's corpse is full of nicks.
Ain't he cute?—he's cut in six.*

Rusty G.—“Dad and I are stockholders in a dairy company.”

“That so?”

Rusty—“Uh-huh—I hold the stock while dad milks 'em.”

Melvin B.—“Who was that girl I saw you with on the street the other night?”

Tom R.—“That wasn't a street—it was an ally.”

“Waiter this steak is so tough I can't cut it.”

“Very good sir—I'll bring you another knife.”

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

*Gone are the days when th's "can" was in its prime,
Gone are the days when it was a painted shrine,
Gone from the snow banks to a better road we know;
I hear those gentle voices hollering, the "can" won't go!
Get out and push! Get out and push!
For my gas tank's running low,
I hear those gentle voices saying
THE "CAN" WON'T GO.*

(Dedicated to Mr Adolphs Ford.)

First Batchler—“What is your idea of a hero?”

Second Batch.—“A morman.”

A.—“Did you take her home?”

B.—“No, it was already mortgaged.”

Fusser (presenting tickets)—“Where do we go?”

Usher (examining them)—“You go to L.” (They fight.)

Owner—“How did you come to puncture the tire?”

Chauffeur—“Ran over a milk bottle.”

Owner—“Didn’t you see it in time?”

Chauf.—“No, the kid had it under his coat.”

WONDERFUL

The dumb man saw a wheel and spoke.

The deaf man saw a flock and heard.

The blind man bought a plane and saw.

He—“Is this the way to the cemetery?”

She—“Yes, you keep standing on that car track and you’ll get there all right.”

VENUS

Miss Hacking—“Johnnie, I don’t like your form, watch me.”

Clouds may have silver linings but pockets don’t.

A horse without a buggy,

A ship without a sail;

But the coldest thing in winter,

Is a shirt without a tail.

He—“I’m not what I used to be.”

She—“No?”

He—“I used to be a child.”

Little drops of water,

Mixed in with the milk

Keep the milkman’s daughter

Clad in swishing silk.

This is a funny world in which we live. When two trains come together that is called a collision, but when two kids come together we call them twins.

Teacher—“When was the song, “Here comes the bride, sung?”

Johnnie—“I don’t know—but dad says it is the greatest war song written.”

Lady—“My—but doesn’t travel bring out all that’s in one?”

Traveler—“Yes, especially ocean travel.”

C. Moore—“Give me that currant pie in the window.”

Joe Joachim—“Excuse me, Sir. But if you will brush the flies off it you’ll find it’s custard.”

Art B. (On exam.)—"The new kind of prose was blank verse."

My wife is like an umpire—she never thinks I'm safe when I'm out.

"So you want a divorce?"

"Yup I do."

"On what grounds?"

"Her coffee is the worst."

"I see, coffee grounds."

Are you going to the Masquerade?"

"Yes."

"But what are you using two suits."

"I'm going as twins."

Teacher—"How many times must I tell you not to come late to Sunday school?"

E. Welser—"Only once a week."

Nurse—"Yes, Helen, the doctor brought twins."

Helen B.—"Gee, that's what we get for having a specialist."

LET'S GO

*He kissed her in the garden
When the moon was shining bright;
But she was a marble statue, and
He was drunk that night.*

Deep—A town may be famous for its beautiful women—but the iceman knows better.
